"A Night of Cleopatra" to Be Produced, Says Impresario, as 1920 Novelty.

Prior to his departure for Italy to day on the steamship Duca d'Aosta Giulio Gatti-Casazza, general manager of the Metropolitan Opera Company, made known yesterday that organization's plans for next season. He announced the production of a new American opera, among other novelties, the restoration of "Pareifal" to the reper-Caruso of a prolongation of his con-tract for four years more and the as-surance of Geraldine Farrar's appearance at the opera for three years ad-

"Of Mr. Kahn and his colleagues on the board of directora," he said, "I also desire to express by appreciation. They have been good enough to conform their confidence in me by extending my engagement as general manager.

"Next season," he continued, "will be full of variety and the new productions will provide an artistic feast not only for the sars but also for the eyes. Among the novelites will be an Americar opera in two scenes, "A Night of Cleopatra," based on one of Theophile Gautier's stories, libretto by Alice Neal Pollack, music by Henry K. Hadley, today one of the most popular native composers.

"Maeterlinck's 'L'Oiseau Bleu,' which as a play had such a great success here a few seasons ago, will be presented here in operatic form for the first time on any stage. The music is by one of the best of the younger French composers. Albert Wolff, now conductor at the Opera Comique. The Metropolitan has engaged him to succeed Maestro Pierre Monteux, who becomes conductor of the engaged him to succeed Maestro Pierre Monteux, who becomes conductor of the Boston Symphony orchestra. Tchaik-cvaky's Eugen Oneigin, perhaps the most bopular opera of the Russian repertoire, will be another novelty.

'It is also my intention to present either a masterpiece of Verdi or of Rossini unknown to our public. Another Italian novelty will be 'Zaza,' based on the play which years ago, I understand, had such a leng run in New York, the libretto and music by the composer of 'Pagliacci'—Leoncavallo. The opera has been given in the West, but a capable interpreter of the title role was lacking. Zaza will have the good fortune to be interpreted by Miss Geraltune to be interpreted by Miss Geraldine Farrar. "Parsifal," which is quite free from
